How The Other Half Lives

How the Other Half Lives: Studies among the Tenements of New York (1890) is an early publication of photojournalism by Jacob Riis, documenting squalid living conditions in New York City slums in the 1880s. The photographs served as a basis for future "muckraking" journalism by exposing the slums to New York City's upper and middle classes. They inspired many reforms of working-class housing, both immediately after publication as well as making a lasting impact in today's society.

How the Other Half Lives Chapter 4 Summary ... - LitCharts

How the Other Half Lives moves beyond mere objective presentation of unpleasant facts to become an emotional and intellectual appeal to the public to demand change. Call it propaganda if you will, but Riis proved that not all Danes are dour, solitary, uninvolved Nordic messengers of democratic socialism by engaging an almost Spielbergian sense of appeal to the sentimental side of the reading public which it prefers to term “conscience.”
